Yongergnow's 10<sup>year</sup> Anniversary

On Saturday 8th April 2017, Yongergnow Australian Malleefowl Centre celebrated its 10 Year Anniversary with over 200 people in attendance.

After a welcome by Chairman Ken Pech, Uncle Billy Woods did a Welcome to Country, which was followed by official presentations and entertainment. Volunteers and stakeholders alike talked about Yongergnow's role in the (wider) community, reminisced about the past and voiced their hopes for the future.

Albany & Regional Volunteer Service's Tracy Sleeman and Jan Savage unveiled a special thank you plaque for Yongergnow's many tireless volunteers.

Entertainment with a difference was provided by Gnowangerup Shire Citizen of the Year and local Noongar man Robbie Miniter and his dance group The Deadly Brothers.

Present and past Ongerup Primary School students and Ross Strahan sang Ross's song

'Who Cares', with the school's principal Mark Bruce, and last but not least, there was self-declared Mallee boy John Williamson!

John shared his memories about becoming interested in Malleefowl conservation, including during his visits to Ongerup. He offered to become Yongergnow's patron - an offer that was proudly taken up by the Yongergnow Board.

The Yongergnow Board would like to thank all staff, volunteers, speakers, sponsors, helpers, guests, and particularly the Anniversary Subcommittee for making this exciting and successful day happen.

Community and Culture at Yongergnow

We're only half way through the year but 2017 has already been a good one for Yongergnow!

At the beginning of the year we welcomed experts from the Museum of the Great Southern, Albany, for an art hanging course. The result of the day is our wonderful Malleefowl art exhibition - for you all to enjoy free of charge in our gallery.

Seven teams participated in our annual Community Fox Shoot and breakfast. Participants braced the bad weather to cull a total of 114 foxes and the "Corackerup Killers" taking the winners trophy home for an impressive 30 foxes, 1 cat and 1 rabbit. We thank North Stirling Pallinup NR, South Coast NRM, Ray's Sports Power, the Ongerup Roadhouse and Hamersley Shearing from their support.

March saw us host our Market Day at the Ongerup Town Hall, featuring stalls from local distributors. St. Patrick's Day was celebrated in style with full Irish breakfast available from our café and the Ongerup Tasting Club that evening. Willoughby Park/Boston Brewery brought their collection to Ongerup for us all to enjoy. In a Tasting Club first we also had a beer degustation. Their Ginger Beer was the star of the show!

We have had two 'Thank a Volunteer' morning tea celebrations this year so far. The first of which featured beautifully decorated cupcakes from local baker Tracey Scheppis and awards presented to our hard working volunteers. The second event was part of National Volunteer Week in May and we had a finger food buffet and doughnuts for everyone - it appears there is a theme developing with our events here!

"We DONUT know what we would do without you"

A week prior to Yongergnow's anniversary celebrations, our kitchen had a new member of staff for the day. As part of the IGA Taste Great Southern, Perth celebrity chef Kiren Mainwaring treated us to a three course long table lunch with a 'Farm Flavours' theme. A great experience for all attending foodies, celebrating the food and drink from our wonderful and diverse region.

The Ongerup Youth Club has been initiated by the Ongerup CRC, and uses Yongergnow as it's base to provide entertainment to our community's younger members with Lego building competitions, face painting etc.

Thanks to Amity Health funding, Vicky is now working with the Ongerup Primary School in a Visiting Scientist project. A biology afternoon covering experiments in adaptation and pollination was enjoyed by all.

Conservation - News from our Birds

Our ten Malleefowl are doing well - our "chicks" are growing up, Rhea and Crackles feel at home in the Ongerup bush and there is an active mound!

The six "chicks" in our large aviary are in fact not really chicks anymore. Having reached full adult size, they are trying out their mound building skills. Some of the birds have been observed randomly digging holes into the dirt of the mound they hatched from. As expected, we have not seen any interest in mating yet. As all the Malleefowl in this aviary are siblings, we are glad to have some more time to determine each individual bird's future.

The pair of Malleefowl in the small aviary, however, are behaving differently... Although the male is not quite two years old, he and his three year old partner have built a mound and are maintaining it!

Before the birds had built their proper mound, we had discovered three unviable eggs in the male's test diggings. This means we know that the female is ready to reproduce. It remains to be seen if the male is mature yet and if the pair will produce viable eggs this season. Exciting times ahead!

Crackles and Rhea, the Malleefowl in the Yongergnow Sanctuary have become used to their new home range, and seem to be comparatively relaxed. They have been observed on the walkway leading up to the café, walking around outside the aviaries, or even outside the Sanctuary wandering around in front of the Centre's front door!

We are very pleased that these two birds have established their home range in and around the Yongergnow Sanctuary, and are hoping that they will establish a 'wild' mound in the Sanctuary or in Ongerup's town bush.

It is a concern, though, that Crackles and Rhea's home range is so close to the highway, and we urge all motorists to look out for these precious birds!

CAUGHT A FERAL CAT?

Sarah Comer of the Department of Parks and Wildlife, Albany, is doing research on feral cats.

She looks into their behavior, their DNA and eating habits to find a way of keeping feral cats under control efficiently.

Sarah appreciates support with her project, so if you happen to have a freshly dead feral cat on hand,

- please note the date and location,
- pop the cat's body into a plastic bag,
- put the bagged cat in the freezer and
- contact Sarah to arrange delivery to or pick-up from Albany.

NEW DISPLAY AT YONGERGNOW

We are currently updating part of our interpretive display.

A draft has been on display since April, and we thank everyone who provided their valuable feedback. The new panels will be finalised and installed in the coming few weeks. We look forward to hearing your comments!

John Williamson announces patronage

Our anniversary celebrations gave us more to celebrate!

During our 10 year anniversary celebrations we got an exciting announcement from John Williamson, declaring his patronage to Yongergnow Australian Malleefowl Centre. John Williamson has played an integral part in Yongergnow's history, attending the official opening ceremony and was patron of the now disbanded Malleefowl Preservation Group.

We are honoured to accept this offer! For more information please see <http://johnwilliamson.com.au/true-blue-news/wa-malleefowl-conservation/>

COMING UP

REVEALED EXHIBITION 15th September to 16th October

A collection of oil and water colour paintings by Susan Angwin who now lives permanently in the region. Combining the elements of design with the elements of nature, Susan continues to pursue the relationship between the human spirit and all other living matter.

For more information please call Susan Angwin on 0400 037 818 or susan.angwin@bigpond.com

This exhibition is part of the Hidden Treasures Bloom Festival.
